Words from Frieda's Musical World

Music was Frieda Belinfante's whole life. Her father was a professional pianist and she grew up playing the cello. After studying at a conservatory, Frieda was a music teacher and then went on to become a conductor and musical director for famous orchestras. Some of the musical terms and words she would have used are to the right—but they've been scrambled! Rearrange the letters to uncover the classical music words. [And, if you get stumped, check out the hint box.]

Rhythm and Rhyme

Audre Lorde's superpower was the written word. She wrote poems about social issues that she cared about. Poets often use techniques like alliteration, rhythm, and rhyme to make their words flow. Let's test out your rhyming skills below!

From a young age Audre loved to read and _ _ _ _ _ .

It made her mind switch on like a
_ _ _ _ _ .

And felt as natural as a bird taking
_ _ _ _ _ .

She wrote and wrote all day long and into the _ _ _ _ _ .

This month we celebrated women who stayed _ _ _ _ to themselves

We hope it inspires _ _ _ .

To dream big and to _ _ .

All the things that make you happy, both old and _ _ _ .
