Surf Scramble

In 2020, Maya Gabeira surfed a 22.4 meter high wave—that's about as high as two school buses stacked on top of each other vertically! It was the biggest wave surfed by a woman ever. Maya continues to catch waves all over the world. Surfers use certain words to describe the conditions on the water and the different parts of a wave. Some of the words Maya and her fellow surfers use are below, but they've been scrambled. Unscramble them to learn how to talk like a surfer. And, if you get stumped, check out the hint box below.
