

REBEL GIRLS[®] CELEBRATE BLACK HISTORY

Color the Galaxy

In 1992, Mae Jemison boarded the space shuttle Endeavour and soared to the stars! As the first Black woman in space, she took in magnificent views of the galaxy. But in this image, all the colors are missing! Help fill in Mae's outer space adventure in vivid color. Scan the QR code to listen to a story about Mae's life while you color.

REBEL GIRLS CELEBRATE BLACK HISTORY

What's Changed?

Poly Styrene was a creative force. One of the only Black women on the punk rock scene in the 1970s, she was a musician like no other! The pictures below are unique too. Circle 6 things that have changed from one image to the next.

Learn more about this punk pioneer on the Rebel Girls app.

REBELGiRLS[®] CELEBRATE BLACK HISTORY

Path to the White House

Kamala Harris shattered a political glass ceiling in the United States when she was elected vice president in 2020. Honor her accomplishments by helping her navigate the maze below.

Scan to hear more about Kamala Harris.

